

NPR-Nursing-Promotion/ Protection/Restorative Health

NPR 760. Conceptual Foundations for Promoting, Protecting, and Restoring Health. 3 Hours.

This course will be focused on theories, concepts and research related to promoting, protecting and restoring health. Students are expected to analyze cultural, social, racial and gender influences on health and research related to health promotion, protection and restoration.

NPR 761. Interventions to Promote, Protect, and Restore Health. 3 Hours.

This course will be focused on in-depth exploration and critical analysis of current intervention research including conceptual and methodological issues. In addition, the course will be focused on designing research to evaluate the outcomes of interventions designed to promote, protect or restore health on individuals or community groups.