

Department of Political Science and Public Administration

Chair: Dr. Robert Blanton

The Department of Political Science and Public Administration offers programs of study leading to the Bachelor of Arts degree in political science as well as the Master of Public Administration (MPA) degree. Undergraduates with strong academic records can participate in our Advanced Bachelor/Masters (ABM) program, in which up to 12 hours can be used towards both undergraduate and graduate degrees.

Political science is concerned with understanding the ways in which government can influence society. The curriculum in political science provides opportunities to systematically and critically study American government and politics, to compare various national political systems, to investigate conflict and cooperation among nation-states, to explore the historical development of political theory, to study human rights at the global and local levels, to analyze the organization and management of public affairs, and to master the methods of political research.

The political science major is an appropriate background for careers in law; social science teaching; state, local, and federal government; foreign diplomacy and international affairs; journalism; campaigns and electioneering; non-profit advocacy; and political research.

We offer different degree options to suit your particular interests and goals. The B.A. in Political Science allows you to take a broad variety of courses within the field of Political Science. For those of you who want to focus on a certain area within Political Science we offer three different concentrations, American Politics and Political Theory, Global Politics and Policy, and Human Rights and Social Justice.
